

Philosophy 730:201: Introduction to Logic

Spring 2014

- Instructor: Una Stojnić,
ustojnic@eden.rutgers.edu
Office no. 523
Philosophy Department,
Rutgers University,
106 Somerset Street, 5th floor
New Brunswick, NJ, 08901.
- Office Hours: Tuesdays, 13:15pm – 14:15pm.
- Course Description: This is an introductory course in logic. You will become familiar with formal systems of propositional and predicate calculus, and learn how to translate sentences and arguments from a natural language, such as English, into these formal languages in order to acquire the ability to state and evaluate them in a formally precise manner.
- Course Materials: Ernest Lepore with Sam Cumming, 2012. Meaning and Argument: An Introduction to Logic Through Language, Second Revised Edition, John Wiley & Sons.
- Where/When: Tuesdays and Fridays from 11:30am to 12:50 pm, at Murray Hall, room 112.
- Grading: There will be four exams on which your grade will be based, according to the following chart:
 - First Exam – a take-home exam (15%)

- Second Exam – in-class exam (20%)
 - Third Exam – in-class exam (25%)
 - Final Exam (40%)
- Attendance Policy: You should attend all the classes. If you do have to miss a class please report this through the University Absence Reporting Website, indicating the date and the reason for your absence.